

Star Mobile

This Star Mobile is lovely for a baby to look at. For very young babies it can just be printed out in black and white so that it is easier for them to see. Alternatively you can print out the colored version and decorate with glitter and stick on gems, with your child. Obviously make sure you are careful of small parts that can be a choking hazard and make sure the string is not too long to avoid potential strangulation.

Materials needed

Paper

Cardboard or laminator pouches

String

Glue, glitter, gems and other items for decoration (optional)

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Print out all the parts and stick onto cardboard and on the other side stick on the yellow backing sheet. Alternatively you can use the laminator instead. Cut out the template. You can use as many stars as you like.
2. Then add the smaller stars (size 2) onto separate pieces of string and after about 4 inches tie knots in each piece of string.
3. Thread through the large star (size 1) from the bottom at each of the five outer corners and gather in a knot above and knot it all together so that the main frame hangs even.
4. With the smallest stars (size 3) attach some more string at a different length (shorter or longer) from the previous stars thread through from the bottom of the main star at each of the inner corners and tie a knot above. Cut the string off to neaten.
